Like leafing through the pages of an old photo album The Residence Mauritius awakens a nostalgic feeling...

Although opened for 19 years, The Residence Mauritius is still considered as one of the jewels of the international hotel scene. Its mile-long beach of immaculate white sand fringed by tropical gardens, its refined and deliciously nostalgic decor inspired by turn-of-the-century plantation houses, its butler service surpassing the colonial palaces of yesteryear, its exotic and delicate cuisine... are only some of the ingredients which have contributed to the hotel's success.

The decoration of the oversized rooms and suites (from 54 to 164 square metres) is an inspired blend of sobriety and elegance. The sun's dance on the shutters sifts into the interior to create a melody of light and dark, its mottled shadows wavering over a muted colour-scheme of white and delicate shades of beige, picking out harmonies of honey-coloured woods and wrought iron, highlighting nuances in the sandy tiles. The same sophistication is present in the hotel staff's attire: the women wear long, sand-toned layered dresses or silk saris in natural colours while the men wear trousers and raw linen waistcoats.

The hotel also prides itself on its cuisine, whose symphony of subtle aromas, tastes and colours can be savoured in its three restaurants. The Dining Room restaurant, made entirely of wood and delicately positioned overlooking the pool, is an open invitation to discover the thousand and one savours of a sophisticated cuisine. The Verandah serves light lunches around the pool. The Plantation, a planter's house by the beach, offers a wide range of seafood and a selection of dishes cooked with local herbs and spices. The bar spacious yet intimate, whose walls are hung with a fine collection of engravings of scenes from Mauritius's history, awaits you for late breakfast, traditional tea or an exotic cocktail.

The Sanctuary Spa

If The Residence Mauritius embodies sophistication and authenticity in the hotel field, CARITA is synonymous with luxury and innovation in the domain of beauty care. CARITA Haute Beauté concept was created in the 60's in the Maison de Beauté at 11 Faubourg St Honoré in Paris, under the creative inspiration of Maria and Rosy CARITA, two French sisters who were called “the magicians of beauty”. On the strength of their talent, hard work, creativity and experience, they revolutionised the world of hair and beauty. Brigitte Bardot, Maria Callas, Catherine Deneuve... all the greatest stars entrusted their beauty to their expert hands, skilled at crafting legends. The CARITA spirit, both innovative and daring, is perpetuated today through treatments of excellence provided by the “artisans of beauty” of La Maison de beauté CARITA. The “Haute Beauté” has found its Residence...

The 800 square metres of this temple to relaxation, opened from 8 am to 8 pm, are dedicated to the well being of the body and the mind, offering a wide choice of skincare treatments, massages and custom-made programs. The ultimate in luxury: one of the 9 cabins is located in the middle of a tropical garden overlooking the lagoon, where beauty treatments and massages are performed in the softness of the sea breeze.
